The report, "Opportunities to Strengthen Early Childhood Services, Programs, and Systems in New Mexico" is the result of a special programmatic and fiscal analysis regarding early childhood services and systems in New Mexico. Though New Mexico is nationally recognized as a leader in efforts to improve early childhood health, development, education, and well-being, more can be done to improve the efficiency, effectiveness and overall impact of these efforts. This analysis:

- Describes opportunities for improving collaboration and reduced duplication;
- Identifies areas where blended funding could produce better service delivery outcomes and cost effectiveness;
- Identifies existing structures and processes that facilitate an integrated early childhood system of care in New Mexico;
- Identifies successful projects and programs that can be replicated; and
- Makes recommendations for action.

You are invited to visit the Wonder of Learning Exhibit at the museum before and after the presentation. The exhibit documents the educational experiences of young children -- from four months to age six -- from the city of Reggio Emilia, Italy, and shows what one city has done to promote and support the potential of each and every young child in the city.
